OIS/AHISK Video Conference: G 6 & 7

Grade 6 and 7 students from both schools shared their views with each other through a video conference about rumours and gossiping and how it effects students' school life. They talked about how rumours and gossip contribute in bullying other students, how students can help each other in building self-esteem and self-respect and what students can do if you see their classmates being bullied.

Students connected via google hangouts and experienced their first ever video conference with their sister school.

Both schools organized video competitions in their own schools in which students prepared videos showing different types and bullying. They spread awareness about the concerned issue and suggested many solutions to their fellow students. In morning assembly, after screening all the videos, students from all grades cast their votes for three best videos. Winners were given certificates and prizes.
